

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides the sequence of a protein capable of acting as an angiostatin receptor as well as the nucleic acid sequence thereof. The invention also relates 5 to the use thereof in screening methods, wherein novel substances are created exhibiting the same advantageous anti-angiogenic properties as angiostatin.